Turk-Bulgarian Pact Is Reported Nullified

Turkey Calls Three New Classes To Colors After Announcing Dardanelles Straits Are Now Mined

By DANA SCHMIDT

ANKARA, March 3.—(AP)—Semi-official Turkish quarters said that Germany's entry into Bulgaria had nullified the Turkish-Bulgarian declaration of non-aggression.

This statement was made as it was revealed officially that Turkey had called three new classes of troops to the colors.

Semi-official Turkish sources said that the German entry into Bulgaria has deprived Bulgaria of her independence and in view of the change in Bulgaria's status the declaration of non-aggression no longer can be held binding.

It was said that three classes of troops had been demobilized in connection with calling up of new colors.

(According to the authoritative statement's war book there are about 150,000 men in an annual class in Turkey, of whom about 10,000 are in the reserve, which would mean a total of more than 260,000 men in three classes, but there was no indication in the Turkish statement of the number of troops called up.)

It is not reasonable to suppose that all the elaborate arrangements made to extend Germany's war machine into Bulgaria are so simply to little Greece. Of course, Hitler faces the necessity for trying to save the Italians from the consequences of their defeat by the Greeks, but that purpose is inadequate to justify the present German move.

With the Greeks so heavily engaged against the Italians in Albania, it is not unreasonable to suppose that Germany is planning to move into the Balkans.

Senate Vote On Aid Bill By Coming Week-End Being Sought

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(AP)—The United States Senate leadership announced today its determination to obtain action on the British aid bill by this week-end, and Democratic Leader Barkley said he was considering a move to limit debate on the measure.

Barkley conferred on strategy with Chairman George (Dm.) of the Senate foreign relations committee and announced afterward that every effort would be made to obtain a vote by Saturday.

The administration leader asserted that "we are going to give them the opposition another day or so, and if they are still talking we mean to go to the floor and vote."

He added that he was considering a move to limit debate on the measure.

German Units Rushed Toward Turk Border To Take Up Positions

LONDON, March 3.—(CP)—The Moscow radio, heard here tonight as expressing Soviet dissatisfaction over Bulgaria's admission of German armies, said that Bulgaria's action would mean "spreading the war and involving Bulgaria."

The radio said the Soviet government could not share the opinion of the Bulgarian government as to the "rightness of her policy" in allowing German troops to enter.

This statement was made in the radio report to Russia's reply to a Bulgarian note saying that Bulgaria's consent to Germany was aimed at "preserving peace in the Balkans."

Apparently Bulgaria had chosen to explain her action formally to her long-time friend, Russia.

Latest Moves In Balkans

BELOGRADE, March 3.—(AP)—Field Marshal Mihailovic, commander-in-chief of German-occupied Balkan armies, was reported today to have installed his headquarters in Sofia.

These developments also followed as both Turkey and Greece were said to be rushing border preparations in the face of Nazi forces moving on Bulgaria's frontier.

Turkey was said to have called up all naval reserves after taking precautionary measures in the Dardanelles, with from three to seven divisions of Bulgaria's newly-mobilized army massed near the Turkish frontier.

GAYDA CLAIMS BRITISH LAND AT SALONIKA

BY REYNOLDS FAIRBANK
ROME, March 3.—(AP)—A British-German ultimatum, asserted today that the British had landed military forces on the vital Salonika front in Greece.

Writing in Gornale D'Italia, Gayda said that German occupation of Bulgaria would destroy a counter-move to British concentrations at Salonika.

Germany's military occupation of Bulgaria, he wrote, "is aimed at halting the Balkan military game and guaranteeing Bulgaria against British plots."

It is not necessary to state that the arrival of German forces in the Balkans does not alter the political situation which Bulgaria previously concluded, including the non-aggression accord with Yugoslavia.

He said that there have been movements of British forces to various Mediterranean points in the past few days, "notably landing at Salonika."

It is natural, he said, "for the aim to reply by opposing the same number of forces and planning to maintain the initiative."

LONDON, March 3.—(AP)—The ministry of labor announced today that 19-year-olds are now registered for military service.

The figures do not include seamen registered at mercantile marine offices or men unavoidably prevented from registering.

and any personal integrity," Mr. Caldwell declared.
"To say that I twisted the editorial is a charge which the editor of the Citizen makes falsely in an attempt to escape the consequences of his written word."
He quoted opposition leader Hanson from last Thursday's official record of the house proceedings, in which Mr. Hanson was recorded as follows:
"I read the article and I thought it was more than a better free case it seemed to me. It was an indictment to force."
"The editor of the opposition therefore placed the same interpretation upon the article as scores of other readers also did," Mr. Caldwell declared.
FALSE ACCUSATION
"I, therefore Mr. Speaker, under the rules protecting members of this house against libelous accusations, bring to your attention," Mr. Caldwell continued.
"I do not propose to move for the attendance of the editor of the paper in question at the bar of the house, as I am advised I have the right to do, or, undoubtedly the unfounded charge of twisting the editorial in question, as a then and malicious accusation of personal dishonesty which infringes upon the rights of members of this house."
Caldwell said he read into the Saturday editorial a suggestion that he had brought this matter up last week because a recentment against an editorial of Jan. 22, attacking him.
He said he had sent a copy of the first editorial to Mr. Lapointe Jan. 19 and requested an acknowledgment Jan. 18.
"BREACH OF PRIVILEGES"
"Indeed, as reference to," said Caldwell, "in the editorial of Jan. 19, the editor of the Citizen, in the attention of the minister, I was endeavoring to secure a change in the Department of Canadian regulations B. repudiating the importance of the editorial administration," said Mr. Caldwell.
"To infer that I was actuated by a desire to revenge a so-called breach of the privileges of this house."
"Indeed, it is obviously false for the editorial appeared on Jan. 11, and I did not see it until after the minister by letter dated Jan. 13, and which he acknowledged personally on Jan. 15, one day before the Citizen's attack on myself which appeared on Jan. 22. Thus my action was entirely unconnected with the Citizen's attack on myself as a personal motive and integrity."

on the ground that any effort to force might result.
Today's debate on the bill brought speeches of support from Senators James D. Stewart (Dem.-Delaware) and William Smathers (Dem.-New Jersey), while Senator David Walsh (Dem.-Massachusetts) opposed his own bill on the floor to avoid the measure.
In his prepared speech, Walsh declared: "I look upon this bill as equivalent to a declaration of war."
"Once in war," he asserted, "there can be no turning back. The congress will have no choice. Such a war will not be America's war. It will be a world war in which we will join the world of nations."
Smathers said he was tired of "this peripatetic practice" that war would be decided by the chair. He remarked that what he argued was that the bill should not be lifted, and again when the Selective Service Act was being discussed for the purpose of chairing it to "frustrate the American people." Walsh declared: "I am one of those who believe that this bill will not cause war."
Should war come, however, "it will be easier," he predicted, "for America to defeat a weakened Germany." The Reich, he said, would be defense which the bill would not be possible.

VIEWERS CONTRADICTED
This war view was contradicted by two supporters of the bill, Senators William Smathers (Dem.-New Jersey) and James Tunney (Dem.-Delaware).
Smathers said he was tired of "this peripatetic practice" that war would be decided by the chair. He remarked that what he argued was that the bill should not be lifted, and again when the Selective Service Act was being discussed for the purpose of chairing it to "frustrate the American people." Far East Under Strain Again

A series of sudden moves by governments with interests in the Far East has created a tense situation in the area above the above Central Press map. While the Dutch East Indies government (1) was ordering its merchant ships to put into neutral harbors, the advisory war council in Australia (2) issued a warning that the war has entered a "new phase one of the utmost gravity." There were reports that a Japanese battle fleet had been concentrated off Hongkong, French Indo-China (3) Japanese warships previously had arrived off Bangkok, Sum. 800 miles from the British Singapore base, and London said Japan might attack the island of Sumatra from the side of the Andaman Sea. In addition, the U.S. consular general in Shanghai issued an urgent warning to Americans in the Far East to return home.

BRITISH TAKE VITAL PASS ON CHEREN FRONT

CAIRO, March 3.—(UPI)—British bombers carried out heavy attacks on the Beirut airbase in Albania and on Italian positions around Cheren in Rumania yesterday, the Royal Air Force said. The Royal Air Force said that the command reported today. General headquarters announced the capture of the important agricultural village of the Dniepr of Abresh in Italian Somaliland.

CAIRO, March 3.—(AP)—British soldiers closing in on Italian forces making a strong stand at Cheren, Italian forces have captured an "important pass" covering the approach to the Cheren junction point. British general headquarters announced Sunday.

The Royal Air Force said that the headquarters of Cheren by attacking "vital positions" in the neighborhood of the Cheren junction point, an accompanying communiqué.

Cheren is the key to Asmara, capital of Italy's isolated colony and 42 miles from the scene of the fighting. British authorities also announced that the Italian forces in Ethiopia where the native followers of Emperor Haile Selassie are cooperating in harassing the Italians, and in Italian Somaliland.

With communications cut, the British said the troops in Ethiopia proceeded along the road to Gondar. The Italian forces in Ethiopia (native Ethiopian) forces inflicted considerable losses on the Italian paratroopers at Bure, which attempted a sortie with cavalry and infantry. The communiqué added: "Signs are apparent of further withdrawals of Italian troops in this region."

With Mekele, capital of Italian Somaliland, and the city of Bardera in British hands, the British have continued mopping up operations in that colony. In the Gogjen district, Paratroopers of Italians are surrendering daily, with the prisoner total in the Mekele campaign nearing 10,000.

Some Italians were believed to have fled through Somaliland's "back door" and apparently are returning to Addis Ababa, capital of Ethiopia.

Federal Officials Refuse Comment On Speech By Telford

OTTAWA, March 3.—(UPI)—Federal officials refused to comment on a letter speech made in Vancouver last night by former Mayor Lyle Telford.

Telford attacked the Canadian war effort, saying that it lacked honesty and patriotism. He charged that "vicious interests" apparently control the government and said that there are "a lot of people afraid that the war may stop."

However, federal officials pointed out that their policy so far has been to leave any action to be taken for violation of defence regulations in such cases to the provincial attorney-general.

Looking Over
Black Kelly

Any Edmontonian had cash down on Bay View to win the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap Saturday, they were about equal in number to the teenth who will find in the average ten-and-maybe you think the bookies aren't glad that they are scarce!

However this completely overlooked horse had given advance notice that he had possibilities for he set the pace in the Santa Anita handicap and finished a good third in Midland and Hysterical.

Bay View was due some luck for his life up until Saturday had brought more misfortune than most—a misfortune in a lifetime. He started off as a yearling by charging his way into a stump of a tree. He then had the scars of that wound on his chest.

During his two-year-old season, Bay View ran only once. Jockey Longden was aboard him. Bay View was slammed into the fence. Longden lost his whip and both stirrups, but managed to cling to his mount's mane. Bay View bowed he had the right stuff in him by snapping back into the run and staying a whitening finish of win—probably the only time Longden ever came down in front in his fashion.

In his third year, Bay View injured his hip against a stall door, broke his shin, injured a muscle or two and wound up with a dose of colic, but despite these troubles he managed to win six out of his eight starts. However Tony Pelletieri of New Orleans had paid only $15,000 for the unlucky youngster and having some 40 other gallupers in his stables, many of them costly animals, he didn't worry much over Bay View's future. Saturday's victory in the world's richest race was a prodigious payoff.

Basketball Rules Are Boring

CANADIAN football rules are not the only sport code that has gone into the cold-draw. Basketball rules have been in the fire for some time now—in fact ever since they were changed a couple years ago by having the court divided into defensive and offensive zones by a line drawn across the middle of the floor.

Down in the United States this change of rules has the same one that it gives over entirely to the defense and a five-foot line classification. The action picture along this column explains the reason perfectly.

The present rule declares that the team in possession of the ball must advance it across the centre line into the defender's half of the floor within 10 seconds of obtaining possession. With their ever-growing desire to win any possible way under the rules regardless of what it makes the game look like, many U.S. colleges have loaded their teams with giants who can reach right into the basket with the help of a little jump as the ball is doing in the adjoining picture. From the point you can see what little chance an average sized man has of stopping him.

The stunt now is to strike fast, get a couple of baskets and then draw your giants up in a semi-circle around your basket and defy the opposition to get through them, around them—or even toss the ball over them. One of these bean-pole defenders can even knock down a shot as it drops toward the basket and is often able to jump and smear a shot made around the backboards. The same giant often jumps and tips in a rebound from one of his mates also.

It is no wonder that George Keegan, coach at Notre Dame, observed in an article in the current issue of "Collier's" "A fine game for a hero of the future." He was probably thinking of a giant, but you can get what he meant—brute force and bulk with little or no skill.

Keegan would rectify things by making the defending team send two men over the centre line after the ball if the team in possession did not advance into the advance zone in 10 seconds. He contends that this would open the game up again, bring back full-court action instead of the present jumble on half of it, and make speed, dribbling, passing and accurate shooting factors in winning.

Another thing Keegan heartily believes is elimination of the old centre jump. The new rules give the team scored on possession of the ball and this Keegan maintains penalizes a good play and makes it almost impossible for a team to win if it is three or four behind with only a minute or two of play left.

It looks like the Notre Dame Irishman has something there worth thinking about.

Roche Intimates Acceptance Of City Offer For Renfrew

WITH Henry Roche intimating to the city commissioners on Saturday that he would accept the city's offer of $30,000 for the surrender of his lease and other interest in Renfrew Park, it appears that a new deal for Edmonton baseball is about to be signed, sealed and delivered.

Next step in the game plan, city commissioners stated, will be to renew negotiations with a group of baseball supporters who are seeking the granting of a lease to the senior baseball population in Edmonton. This association, has made representation to the city council, outlining especially the fostering of the game amongst junior club members.

Documents covering the surrender of the lease are being drawn by T. E. Garvie, K.C., city solicitor. It is anticipated the deal will be completed by mid-week. It is estimated that $10,000 had been spent on park improvements since Mr. Roche assumed that lease, which was to have expired in 1968. The original lease under which most of the improvements were made, was extended in 1958, at which time the new lease was drawn for a 10-year period.

Racing cars are "born down" after each major event, and worn parts are replaced.

Medical Board Accompany
Enlistment Officer

Recruiting for Canadian Army (A) units in this city and district is proceeding steadily. It is the statement of both Lt. Col. Allan H. Elliott, officer commanding No. 1 Sub-District at the Prince of Wales Army and Maj. J. Howard Gajnor, district recruiting officer of M.D. No. 15.

Maj. Gajnor returned here Sunday night from a swing around the district to the east of this city. He spent on 10 men at Inuvialut, 11 at Vegreville, 16 at Vermilion and another group at Lloydminster.

At 10 a.m. Tuesday, Maj. Gajnor will be at the Legion Hall, Wainwright, to recruit men and on Wednesday will be at Chauvin.

Swinging west again, he will be at Stony Plain on Thursday. A medical board is accompanying Maj. Gajnor to inspect the men.

Lt. Col. Elliott declared that men are offering themselves steadily at the Prince of Wales Army. The flow is steady and a first physical test is stepping forward.

Lt. Col. G. R. Bradbrook, M.C., officer commanding the 1st Tank Battalion, C.A. (A) was a city visitor over the week end, and interviewed several potential recruits for his unit. Those selected will be sent to the medical boards and when that is done they will be posted to the unit, which is now at Calgary.

Officers commanding Edmonton units of the Canadian Army (R) are also making rounds. Major Gajnor, commanding the 1st Armoured Division, M.M. (E) area command, also is in the city. Plans for the future of these units for the current year will be discussed.

War Savings
Honor Roll

Edmonton's payroll saving drive brought more than 300 monthly pledges to the central organization office Monday. The 300 firms signified that their employees had voluntarily pledged 10 per cent of their wages to the war savings drive.

At the present time a large number of paymasters from 300 firms are being contacted by the central office to have their firms' payroll saving drive put into effect.

Protest Made on Plan
By U.S. Airlines For
New Service to North

Protest has been heard in the city at the announcement made by Northwest Airlines Inc., a United States company, that they had applied to Washington for a license to operate a mail, express and passenger service from St. Paul, Minn., to Fairbanks, Alaska, through Canada.

Such a service would be in direct competition with Canadian airlines now supplying connecting service for passengers between the United States and Alaska.

Northwest Airlines propose to fly 21-passenger mailplanes from St. Paul to Fairbanks via Regina, Edmonton, Grande Prairie and Whitehorse.

Direct service to the United States is being sought by the Yukon Southern Air Transport and Trans-Canada Air Lines, connecting at Whitehorse with Pan-American Airways and at Lethbridge with Western Air Express. The Lethbridge link with Great Falls, Minnesota, will be inaugurated this month by Western Air.

MAJOR'S REACTION
Major John W. Fry said: "While I am not opposed to the full details of the proposal, my first reaction is one of disapproval. When our company was first proposed, it seemed to be a foreign company coming in and take away our traffic. It was a blow to us. We had been working hard to build up our business and now a foreign company was coming in and taking away our traffic. We had been working hard to build up our business and now a foreign company was coming in and taking away our traffic."

However, it does not mean that the Dominion government will consent to it. It is a long time before the government will consent to it. It is a long time before the government will consent to it. It is a long time before the government will consent to it. It is a long time before the government will consent to it.

But it is well to know that Edmonton is watching this situation and does not propose to agree to a through service by a United States company. Mayor Fry said.

TROOP CARRIERS
Northwest has made the application on the grounds that its planes could not be used in the event of an emergency. However, it is seeking a mail contract at the United States Army Air Corps. The planes would be used to carry mail and passengers between the United States and Alaska.

PRAYERS
SAID SUNDAY
FOR VICTORY

Thousands Voice Supplication
For Defeat Of Tyranny

Alberta observed a day of prayer Sunday when thousands of Edmontonians packed city churches to offer prayers of intercession on behalf of the cause undertaken by the Dominion of Canada, and the other Dominions of the Commonwealth of Nations, and for a speedy and enduring peace founded on justice, liberty and truth—sure foundations of our Christian way of life.

Rev. Canon A. M. Tremblay, speaking at All Saints pro-cathedral Sunday morning, took as his text a passage from St. Matthew: "Blessed are they that mourn for they shall be comforted."

"It is a day like this of values," Canon Tremblay said. He answered this by saying, "We must do more than pray."

POLLERS
"We must concentrate ourselves and give up that part of our lives that is un-Christian. We must get rid of the things that have caused us to be in this position. We must find ourselves in today. For, make no mistake about it, the great masses of people in this world are following over the past 20 years, a course which the world we are living in today."

To End Deadlock Between
City and Workers' Union

Three possible avenues of solving the deadlock between members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers' Union, B-1067 and the City of Edmonton arising out of the city council's bylaw making it compulsory for every civic employee to make contributions to war service and other approved charities are contained in a letter from Gerald H. Brown, Ottawa, assistant deputy minister of labour, to R. S. Evans, secretary of the union.

First suggestion is that the city council amend the bylaw to make it optional for these civic workers desiring such action to be made.

Second suggestion is that if the civic authorities are not prepared to amend the bylaw accordingly, the dispute might be referred to an arbitrator.

Third suggestion is that if neither of these suggestions prove satisfactory there would not appear to be any good reason why the dispute, not, by joint consent, be referred to a board established under legislation of the province.

ARBITRATION BOARD
Application for a board of arbitration under the provisions of the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act was made by the Electrical Workers' Union immediately the bylaw was passed by the city council.

Court action was taken by the union to restrain the city from doing this. The city, however, refused to do this. The city, however, refused to do this. The city, however, refused to do this.

Final drive in Edmonton to reach the objective of 18,000 workers pledged to the monthly purchase of war savings certificates for the duration of the war started in the city Monday when the women opened a wide campaign to achieve the city's objective.

Saturday the number of pledges was within 4,000 of the objective, and officials are confident that during the present week the 18,000 goal will be reached.

And again. Announcement that the February war savings drive had been extended for one week was made by W. P. Zeller, Montreal, Dominion chairman of the campaign.

Sunday afternoon at the Capitol theatre the women volunteers workers who have undertaken to canvass the city were given final instructions by W. P. Zeller, Montreal, Dominion chairman of the campaign.

WAIT FOR ME

By KATHERINE MACY

BLONDE JAN MACLEOD, 26, creche's daughter on the ROBERT VAN VLIET Virginia, the son of a well-known couple who got a divorce and then remarried. Jan's mother, Mrs. JIM BROWN, and father, Mr. JIM BROWN, are both well-known in the city. Jan's mother, Mrs. JIM BROWN, and father, Mr. JIM BROWN, are both well-known in the city. Jan's mother, Mrs. JIM BROWN, and father, Mr. JIM BROWN, are both well-known in the city.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN
SINCE he had promised Robert Van Vliet to let him know where she was going in the morning, Jan had written him soon after she had left for the city. Her letter had been full of love and affection, and she had promised to let him know where she was going in the morning.

This was her letter remaining with Mother Malloy, care of the regular letters from Elsie and Philip Carr. Thinking came and went with a turkey at Mother Malloy's. She and Steve went to their home in the city. Steve reported that he was again going out of town, and hoped to see Jan when he returned.

GOING OUT
That day came two weeks before Christmas, when Jan came home to find Steve going through her wardrobe carefully. "Looking for something fancy enough to wear in a big occasion," he explained. "Steve and Bill are taking us out tomorrow night."

Sonnysayings
"Jim seemed to be a steady sort of person, and Peter has always admired him. Peter wasn't looking any too well, so I thought Jim's suggestion that they go to a big night club was a good idea. But once I found a little worried about the boy."

"I don't know you," said Jan warmly. "I should hear anything about him. I'll surely let you know."

When Steve and Bill came she was still so agitated by the call that she met them almost absentmindedly. She said to Steve from the corner of her eye, "Something happened. I don't know what, but make her forget it."

HIGH SPIRITS
Since Steve was in high spirits and apparently willing to let bygones be bygones, that was not difficult.

He and Bill went the girls off to dinner, where Jan almost forgot her problem in the infectious gaiety of the other three.

They were lingering over coffee when Bill suggested they go to a new night club just opened.

"Sweet baby," said Jan enthusiastically, "and a girl who sings those Calypso songs. Shall we try it?"

They piled into a taxi and presently were seated on the edge of the dance floor. Steve looked around and waved at others in the room.

"Right tonight," he said. "This place may go. Want to dance, Jan?" They went on the floor, and as the music began, Steve said in her ear, "Something on your mind?"

GOOD JUDGMENT
Jan's hand closed on his arm. "Yes," she said, making up her mind. She felt fairly in Steve's steady good judgment and in his discretion. "I want to find Jim Brown."

"Brown? This time, eh? Girl, you should be a detective, maybe you should hire one. Finding people seems to be a mania with you." He looked down at the top of her blond head.

"Did I tell you how beautiful you look tonight?"

"Jim Brown?" she said stubbornly, refusing to meet his eye.

"And, by remote control, Peter Van Vliet is."

"But I'm not the one who wants to find either of them," she said quickly. "It's Peter's father. He called me tonight. He hasn't heard from Peter since. . . ."

"I see a dark stranger coming into your life."

"I see a dark stranger coming into your life."

"I see a dark stranger coming into your life."

"I see a dark stranger coming into your life."

"But I haven't heard from Steve," objected Jan. "I don't know how her face has brightened."

"It's all right," he called me. "I'm sure you'll get a bonus for that New Jersey story, and we're going to do great things. How are you fixed for clothes?"

Jan thought how to the white dress and the jade velvet wrap, which Peter had bought for her.

She had not worn them since and had kept them pushed back in her closet, far back in the closet, where they would not remind her of things she did not want to dwell on. "I . . . have a dress," she said.

DRESSED IN HASTE
She approved it wholeheartedly the next night when she dressed in a flurry of haste and perfume.

"Yum, yum," she said, her eyes bright with admiration.

"Whoever persuaded you to get that had an eye for clothe! Smart and expensive. It does things for you, Jan, and that coat with your hair."

"Forgive me, Jan," called Mother Malloy from the hall.

It was Robert Van Vliet, whose voice was oddly breathless, almost embarrassed. "You haven't seen Peter lately, have you?" he asked, without preamble.

"Felt?" No, Mr. Van Vliet. Not since October."

"I rather hoped you had. The young rascal hadn't written me for so long. I was wondering if he was still in the city."

The bank says they haven't heard from him either."

"He left last evening, you know, to go to Canada with Jim Brown."

"Canada? But why . . . Jan could not speak, but he went on."

"Jim seemed to be a steady sort of person, and Peter has always admired him. Peter wasn't looking any too well, so I thought Jim's suggestion that they go to a big night club was a good idea. But once I found a little worried about the boy."

"I don't know you," said Jan warmly. "I should hear anything about him. I'll surely let you know."

EDEN STARTS CONFERENCES WITH GREEKS

British Foreign Secretary
Has Important Talks
With Leaders

By BEN AMES

ATHENS, Greece, March 3.—(AP)—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden began a series of conferences with high Greek officials today and all newspapers stressed the importance of the visit.

"Our confidence in a final victory over the Axis is complete," the Elthamman Vima said, "and we wish to convey this conviction through Eden and Dill (Gen. Sir John G. Dill, chief of the British Imperial General Staff, who accompanied Eden here)."

NO OTHER ALTERNATIVE

"It is with this feeling that the Greek people know today that no other alternative is possible than to win or die. The Albanian campaign shows this conclusively."

(Nothing has been published in Athens of the German occupation of Bulgaria, or of reports that German troops have reached the Greek-Bulgarian border. The determination expressed in the newspapers was the indication of Greece's attitude toward the possibility of a German invasion. Eden's visit had been scheduled for some time.)

Eden, leaving the eastern Mediterranean area, landed at the airport at 2:45 p.m. Sunday and within four hours had visited Premier Alexander Korymbis and had been visiting King George.

Today, Eden was having lunch with King George and he was to be guest at dinner at the British legation in Athens.

Saturday's earthquake at Larissa, in Thessaly, added heavily to Greece's trouble.

10,000 HOMELESS
Reports from the earthquake region indicated that 10,000 were homeless. There had been six shocks between 8:15 a.m. and 3 p.m. Saturday. Buildings in the earthquake area crumbled, filling the streets with debris. The shocks were 100 miles north of Larissa and 100 miles south of the Gulf of Corinth.

A blizzard raged at the time of the earthquake, increasing the toll of the refugees. Many of the bombing planes were loaded with medical supplies at Athens and sent to the coast.

At Cairo, British headquarters reported that British air force planes at Larissa had been damaged by the earthquake.

"At Budapest the Greek radio was heard broadcasting that Greek troops had started a general offensive on the capital of Hungary, prepared during two days of good weather."

VICHY AGREES TO JAP TERMS OF SETTLEMENT

SAIGON, French Indo-China, March 3.—(AP)—The Vichy government has agreed to Tokyo's plan for settlement of the territorial dispute between Indo-China and Thailand. Commander Ito Yamada claimed that French officials had agreed to his terms, but French colonial representatives at Tokyo, who had been opposing the concession, had been told by the Japanese to accept the terms. The spokesman claimed, however, that the Japanese expect prompt signature on the French agreement. Japan has demanded that the French cede to Thailand large areas of the Indo-China provinces of Laos and Cambodia.

Officials at Hanoi, the French colonial capital, nevertheless said they had not been informed of any Vichy decision.

American Help For Great Britain Will Not Come Too Late

LONDON, March 3.—(CP)—John Winant, new United States ambassador to Britain, told a press conference today that U.S. aid to Britain was increasing daily and predicted the German contention that help would come too late would prove wrong.

The ambassador said he had an appointment to see Prime Minister Churchill this week and hoped to meet other members of the government shortly.

Bennett Silent On Proposal He Probe Aircraft

LONDON, March 3.—(CP)—R. H. H. Bennett, British Minister of Aircraft, said today that he had received a suggestion from the Ottawa House of Commons that he be asked to investigate Canada's aircraft production.

Mr. Bennett's attention was called to an Ottawa dispatch while he was reading a newspaper. He looked up and listened to the suggestion, then smiled and resumed reading without comment.

The suggestion was made by John Doherty, Saskatchewan Conservative, who said he had seen an Ottawa dispatch.

Italy Says E-Boats Sink 2 Submarines

ROME, March 3.—(AP)—The Italian high command claimed today that Italian torpedo-boats sank two "enemy submarines" in the Mediterranean and that an Italian submarine sank three ships totaling 20,000 tons in the Atlantic.

The confirmation was available from British sources.

Ambassador Off To England

John G. Winant, left, new U.S. ambassador to Great Britain, and Benjamin Cohen, presidential adviser, are shown as they waited to board the Clipper at La Guardia Field, New York, for flight to London. Winant said he and President Roosevelt had "agreed on a policy of material aid to Great Britain." They reached England Saturday, and King George made a special trip to greet Mr. Winant personally.

MORE CANUCKS DISEMBARK AT BRITISH PORT

Thousands Of Men,
Including Australians, New Zealanders Land

By LOUIS V. HUNTER

A BRITISH PORT, March 3.—Thousands of Canadian soldiers and airmen, who disembarked at this port during the last few days Sunday headed for camp to join their fellow countrymen in the defense of Britain.

Some after their journey reached port the Canadians streamed ashore, singing and tossing caps into the air. They were welcomed by senior military officials of Britain and Canada.

MANY UNITS

There were units of anti-aircraft, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, labor, forestry, and graduates of the Commonwealth air training plan. These airmen included pilots, observers and gunners, and among them, in addition to Canadians, were representatives of Britain, Australia, New Zealand and Poland, some of whom already had fighting experience and went to Canada to study advanced navigation.

Safe arrival of the convoy, which was already protected, maintained the perfect record of the Royal Navy in transporting troops across the Atlantic. Not a single Canadian soldier has lost his life from enemy action during any of the numerous crossings.

It was a scene reminiscent of the previous arrivals. Waving soldiers lined the decks of big liners, sang "Roll Out the Barrel," and yelled: "Where's that guy Hilder?"

The troops marched ashore, stacked their kit while awaiting trains and spent the time ridding themselves of the crossing as quiet and as the platforms, pausing now and then to drop a rueful yawn for a glass of that bitter we have been hearing about.

VICTORIES CHEERED
The men did not become stale and cheered words of British victory in the middle east. The men received the crossing as quiet and as they experienced only two days of roughing.

"It was tougher in the harbor while waiting to debark than anywhere on the Atlantic," said one tough free-lancer.

WIDER POWERS ARE EXTENDED TO COTTRELL

New Regulations Give Oil Controller Vastly Increased Control

OTTAWA, March 3.—(CP)—Power to fix maximum and minimum prices at which petroleum products may be sold or offered for sale in any province has been conferred on oil controller G. R. Cottrell of Toronto in regulations published Sunday night in an extra edition of the Canada Gazette.

In the original regulations setting out the oil controller's jurisdiction an order-in-council, dated last June 28—Mr. Cottrell was empowered only to fix "maximum prices and maximum mark-up."

DEALING IN OIL
The new regulations also permit Mr. Cottrell to prohibit or regulate "any practice or mode of dealing in or with oil" which might tend to increase the price of oil or affect its orderly purchase, sale or distribution.

Mr. Cottrell's power to fix or limit the quantity of oil which may be bought and sold or distributed is continued. The new regulations were drawn up at the oil controller's request.

The regulations give Mr. Cottrell power to prohibit any person from registering or acquiring in any manner any real or personal property, including equipment, for use in drilling, manufacturing, processing, or distributing petroleum in any way.

POWERS OF COMMISSIONER
Subject to approval of Munitions Minister Howe, he may conduct any investigation to obtain information concerning the oil industry, and in such cases has all the powers of a commissioner under the Inquiries Act.

In addition to powers previously provided for infraction of regulations, the controller may prohibit any person who contravenes the regulations from any dealing in or with oil or equipment.

The controller is empowered to use the land of any person for the purpose of any dealing in or with oil and also to regulate installation, use, purchase or distribution of any equipment.
